Bill Spence Dies Suddenly

Funeral services were held on Tuesday September 6, for William David Spence, age 68, who died suddenly at his home here on Saturday, September 3.

Born in Douby, Oakland Island, Scotland, Mr. Spence went to Illinois, Minn. in 1911, where he worked with the Royal Bank of Canada. He later moved to Calgary and immediately went overseas during World War I.

He returned to Calgary in 1920 and operated a general store in Rosedale.

In 1927, Mr. Spence came to Didsbury and assumed the management of Jenkins store. He had been here until the time of his death.

Mr. Spence was a member of King Hiram Lodge, No. 21, A.F. and A.M. He is survived by his wife, Margaret, Didsbury; one daughter, Mrs. J. A. (Barbara) Callic, Calgary; two granddaughters; two brothers George in England, and Leslie, Scotland.

Rev. T. J. Stanton, officiated. Interment was in Didsbury cemetery. Didsbury Funeral Home were in charge of arrangements.

OTTAWA TO BUY PORK?

The heavy rate of hog marketing in both Canada and U.S. is worrying Canadian government and agricultural officials.

Who is going to eat the heavy flood of pork now coming to market? How low will prices have to tumble to get the housewife to boost her purchases?

With hog marketing running 20% ahead of last year and the heavy marketing season now approaching, substantially lower prices appear certain. The big concern as far as Ottawa is concerned is whether prices will be driven to the old 1952 established floor price level of $23 cwt. (Toronto, Montreal) where the Federal Government would be compelled to enter the market and buy all supplies offered at that price.

Notes From D.A.

By HOWARD J. FULCHER

The Alberta Department of Agriculture has a number of policies which assist in supplying purebred sires to commercial breeders in cattle, swine and sheep.

In the Cattle Improvement Policy the department will pay 10% of the cost up to a maximum of $50 also transportation charges to the purchaser nearest shipping point. In the Sheep Policy the department pays the transportation charges supplying the Ram at cost.

In the Swine Improvement Policy there are two which prospective buyers would be interested in. Policy "A" the department pays transportation charges. In Policy "B" which applies to contributor sales the same contribution is made by the department but the transportation charges are not paid. In this last policy these sales must be sponsored by some Agricultural or Livestock organization.

In all cases the sires are inspected and passed by government officials. It is a means whereby farmers may have good sires located, selected and delivered to their nearest shipping point without a lot of travelling themselves. In addition to the careful selection and handling done by the officials, a contribution is made towards the purchase price by the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

These various policies are available to all bona fide farmers who are not purebred breeders. Anyone who is interested should call at this office and get further details.

Evacuation Plans Clouded!

Details of the mass evacuation from Calgary, scheduled to take place on Wednesday, September 21, are hard to come by. Since last week's issue, committees which were named, have been hard at work, but final plans have not been completed.

Mayor Lynch-Staunton and director Ed Klinek are to attend a meeting in Calgary on Tuesday, September 13th, to make final arrangements for the massive evacuation of Calgary residents.

We trust that a clearer report of what is to be expected of local organizations and town people will be available to us before they drop that "bomb" in the southern city!

Westcott W.I. Plan Food Sale

A parcel was presented to the institute by Mrs. Ed Klinek as handicraft convener Westcott W.I. was one of three women's institutes who tied for first place, with 113 points in the handicraft exhibit this spring. The parcel was the prize instead of another silver dish.

A letter was read from the corresponding W.I. in Norham, England.

Final plans were made for the tea and food sale to be held on Saturday, September 10th, in the basement of the United Church, from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

The five minute education talk was given by Mrs. MacFarlane on "The Chinese Witch-Hazel."

Death Toll Reaches New Peak

Twelve Albertans were reported killed in Labor Day weekend accidents, including six victims of one highway crash by late Monday night.

The total included eight deaths on the highways, one shooting and one drowning, and two deaths in tractor mishaps.

Meanwhile the Canadian toll had reached 69 and was mounting steadily as the U.S. reported 529 dead at the weekend, 385 on the highways.

The country's worst single accident happened at Clyde, 40 miles north of Edmonton, where a heavily-loaded truck and an automobile crashed at an intersection. Five persons died Saturday night and a sixth died in hospital Sunday.

Officials Plug Farm Safety

Officials of the Alberta Safety Council say that the harvest season has already taken a toll in lives lost and injuries sustained by farmers and their families.

Unless common sense safety rules are followed, more of these tragedies are bound to occur during the current busy season say the safety men.

Keeping children away from work areas and out of the path of moving machinery should be the number one consideration of any farm family. Keeping children off tractors should be an absolute rule. Only a few days ago, a child was killed in southern Alberta when it fell off a moving tractor and was crushed beneath the wheel. No passenger—adult or child—should be allowed to ride on a tractor. There is no safe place for anyone except the operator to sit or stand. Besides interference with the operator and the distinct possibility of being thrown off under the tractor or under the machine, an upset endangers two people instead of one. Allowing extra people to ride on a tractor, even a short distance, is to invite another tragedy of the sort which has become almost commonplace in Alberta.

The second absolute rule to be observed when running any machinery is to stop the machine before attempting any service work on it. Greasing, re-fueling, removing obstructions or plugs, should not be attempted until the machine has been shut down. If, for any reason, the shields on power take-off, Vee belts, or drive chains should be removed, the machine should not be put into service again until the shields have been replaced.

Loss of life results most frequently from mis-handling of tractors. Overturning is the chief hazard and takes most lives. Here are some simple rules: To avoid overturning, spread the wheels as far apart as possible for the job in hand; put liquid in tires according to manufacturer's instructions to reduce bouncing; stay off soft shoulder and edges of cut-banks; avoid side hills and slopes which could cause tipping if the low wheel drops into a rut, a dip in the ground level or the high wheel runs over a hump; make safe speeds a

TWO INCOME TAXES?

For 15 years Canadian taxpayers have been filling out one set of income tax forms. Even in Quebec, which has never signed a tax rental agreement, it wasn't until this year that two forms had to be used with a different basis of taxable income for each.

We've grown so used to this state of affairs that to most of us it seems unthinkable that we might have to return to the complications, annoyances and cost of overlapping tax jurisdictions. But it could happen!

The federal government is toying with a scheme which could endanger all the uniformity of income taxes which the tax rental agreements have brought about. It has not yet been adopted as the basis of Ottawa's proposal to the ten provinces in October, of course, and there is still plenty of time for the cabinet to reject the importance of avoiding double taxation. But the political appeal is obvious.

Carry proper signal lights at night; use low gear going up or down hills; go slowly on gravel or rough road.

Squirrel Cage...

Joe: "My wife is scared to death that someone will steal her clothes."

Fred: "Don't she have them insured?"

Joe: "She has a better idea. She has some guy stay in her closet and watch them. I found him there last night."

An Irishman had trouble with his eyes, and so consulted the doctor. The doctor told him to take his choice—stop drinking, or so blind. The Irishman turned the proposition over in his mind for a little while, and finally said, "Well, I'm sixty-two years old now—and I believe I've seen everything worth seeing."

The candidate for election was surprised by a voice which came from the back of the hall in the midst of his speech:

"Well, I don't care wot yer says, I wouldn't vote for you if you was the angel Gabriel!"

Quick as a flash the candidate replied:

"And if I were the angel Gabriel, you wouldn't be in my constituency."

WE'RE ALL FOR IT!

We are all for that $50.00 bonus that the Provincial Government is giving the pensioners as a Jubilee Celebration, present. A little lift like this can make the sunset of life a trifle rosier for some thirty-two thousand Alberta citizens. It sets the pace for other provinces, but not that someone will steal her clothes," back onto.

It's a woman's world. When a man is born people ask: "How is the mother?" When he marries, they exclaim: "What a lovely bride!" and when he dies, they inquire: "How much did he leave her?"

Checker: "I feel like punching the manager in the nose again."

Banger: "Again?"

Checker: "Yea—I felt like it yesterday too."

"If I were trying to match politeness," said the woman customer, smiling at the sales girl, "I'd have a job to find it here."

The sales girl was equal to the occasion.

"Let me see your sample, madam," she said.

Things That Count!

Not what we have, but what we use.

Not what we see, but what we choose: These are the things that mar or bless.

The sun of human happiness. The things nearby, not things afar.

Not what we seem, but what we are.

These are the things that make or break. That gives the heart its joy or ache.

Not what seems fair, but what is true.

Not what we dream but what we do.

These are the things that shine like gems.

Like stars in fortunes diadems. Not what we take, but what we give.

Not as we pray, but as we live: These are the things that make for peace.

Both now and after that time shall cease.

Duck Season Opens Sept. 7

Harvest and duck shooting season go together and as we have had many people checking with us as to regulations, etc., we thought it might be a good idea to drop the following regulations in front of our readers:

"Shooting of ducks, geese, rails, and coots will be permitted in the far northern part of Alberta from Sept. 1 to Nov. 30, according to the new bird shooting regulations just issued by the provincial fish and game branch.

"In the remainder of the province, comprising the settled area, the season will be open from Sept. 7 to Dec. 10, all dates being inclusive.

"The above opening dates also apply to shooting of Wilson snipe.

"The regulations also provide for an increase in bag limit for ducks this season. This has been set at 10 per day, compared with eight last season. The possession limit has been increased from 32 to 40, of which not more than 20 may be species other than mallards.

"For geese, the bag limit is five per day, the same as in 1954, but the possession limit has been raised from 10 to 15.

"The bag limit for rails and coots is 10 per day in the aggregate, with eight per day for Wilson's snipes.

"The possession limit is 20 for rails and coots and 16 for Wilson's snipe.

"The open season for all upland birds, with the exception of blue grouse and partridge, is from Oct. 15 to Nov. 30, inclusive. Last year, the season for shooting grouse and pheasant was from Oct. 18 to Nov. 20.

"This year, there is a new possession limit of 20 for each species of upland birds.

"Every person having obtained a resident or non-resident bird game license must return such license, properly completed and signed, to the game department not later than Dec. 31, following the date of issue. Failure to do so may result in the licensee being refused a bird game license for any future season, in addition to any penalty provided under The Game Act, 1946."

We hope this information will be of assistance to the many avid hunters in the immediate hunting area.

OUR PROBLEMS DIFFERENT

Canada should outline its position clearly and firmly when U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Benson and other members of President Eisenhower's Cabinet come to Ottawa to discuss the disposal of farm surplus stocks and renewal of the International Wheat Agreement, declares The Financial Post. In the past Canadians have been too much inclined to follow the American lead. We have done this in the mistaken assumption that the marketing problems of the United States and Canada were similar.

Actually those problems are not similar.

Agriculture in the United States is by no means the major industry it is in Canada and especially so when it comes to the export field.

In Canada the export for wheat is the dominant end of the business. Two out of every three bushels we grow in a normal season must find a foreign buyer.

In the United States, on the other hand, the domestic market and the domestic price are much the most important.

Perhaps the United States could afford to give away most of its surplus farm production, provided the domestic price could be kept firm. Here without a firm export price our farmers face ruin and the total business involved is so big that the Canadian taxpayer simply could not hope to be able to bail out the producer

Double Capacity At Fish Hatchery

The capacity of the Calgary Fish Hatchery, incubator of all the young trout planted in Alberta lakes and streams, has been doubled with the completion of new hatching facilities. The hatchery addition was built at a cost of $120,000 by the Calgary Brewing and Malting Co. Ltd., which is responsible for all capital construction and maintenance costs. The Fish and Game Branch of the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests pays the salaries of all hatchery workers, some incidental maintenance cost and the expense of feeding the fish.

Fish and Game Branch officials regard the new hatchery as the last word in technical equipment. All equipment was installed according to specifications drawn up by the lands and Forests Department and the result has given Alberta one of the finest hatcheries in Canada.

New Well Drilled — The new hatchery is bright, and attractive. Equipment includes 70 troughs, 14 rectangular tanks, and seven circular tanks, four of 12-foot diameter and three of 8-foot diameter. A new well capable of producing 1,000 gallons of water per minute was drilled to provide the water which passes through an aerating system into the hatching troughs. In addition, there is office space and a laboratory, which can be used by fish biologists and sanitary inspectors of the Alberta Health Department.

The new addition is the latest stage in the evolution of a fish hatchery which has benefited hundreds of Alberta fishermen and delighted thousands of visitors.

The Calgary Fish Hatchery was started in 1938 when the Calgary Brewing and Malting Co. Ltd. received a permit from the Alberta Government to hatch a few trout. The company obtained eggs from Kananaskis Lakes spawn camp of the late Jack Martin, who personally planted large numbers of fish in Alberta. This marked the beginning of the cordial partnership between the Lands and Forests Department and the Calgary beverage company. In 1949, the hatchery was expanded and moved to another part of the brewery and this year the latest expansion was completed.

Lands and Forests Staffs — All hatchery operations are directed by Alex Sinclair, hatchery superintendent, while William H. MacDonald, Lands and Forests liaison officer at Calgary, integrates the hatchery program with fish planting work and biological research. Mr. Sinclair has two permanent employees to assist him, while two extra workers are taken in during the summer months.

Eggs for the hatchery are purchased in the United States by the Department. Rainbow trout eggs are purchased mainly from Massachusetts, although some eggs come from Montana and Washington. The eggs are delivered at two periods — at December and June.

The eggs received in December are ready for planting in lakes and streams by June 1, with the eggs that are received in June planted

Alberta Oil . . .

Geologists agree that oil is formed from the remains of vast quantities of marine animals that settled on the beds of prehistoric seas and were quickly covered by silt before decay. To later seas increased pressure and heat caused chemical changes resulting in oil and gas. Basins of solid rock contained the oil and vast reefs of compressed coral skeletons formed the porous rock reservoirs from which the oil is drawn.

These deposits occurred mainly in the two largest and the last of the several seas that submerged Alberta. Norman Wells at Leduc, Woodbend and Red Water fields had their origin in the Devonian Sea. Pembina and Athabasca tar-sands are traced to the last or the Cretaceous Sea. Valley, Pincher Creek and Jumping Pound are attributed to a small sea that encroached from the south between the Devonian and the Cretaceous periods.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Grace Hunsperger's old friend, in number, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hunsperger, on August 31st, and succeeded in a real surprise, the occasion being Miss Hunsperger's 50th year. The happy occasion was celebrated by two concerts and several piano solo, a beautiful birthday cake made by Mrs. H. Dedels and lit with candles as to number of years. A lovely lunch was served, after which, Miss Grace Hunsperger opened her many gifts and in a few chosen words told her friends how much it meant to her and how happy she was for so many friends and it was a complete surprise.

In July to complement the earlier June plantings.

Warm Weather Aids Incubation

When eggs arrive, they are placed in the running water of the troughs kept at a temperature of 54 degrees to aid incubation. After hatching, which may require from 10 days to three weeks depending upon the stage the eggs had reached when delivered, the young fish begin life in the hatching troughs.

Between the hatching time and the period when they can feed themselves, the trout are nourished by a yolk sac, which young fry carry with them after hatching. Once the yolk sac is absorbed, usually within a week, the fry make their transition to finely ground liver distributed into the water in a thin paste. This stage is the most critical of the hatchery routine since some of the fry are reluctant to try the strange new food. Later, in the rearing ponds, when circumstances are appropriate for such food, horsemeat is fed to trout over a year old but ground liver is the only diet for the younger fish. The feeding of the fish in the hatchery is one item of great annual expense to the Fish and Game Branch, costing from $6,000 to $8,000 a year.

Hatchery supplies 80% of Plantings — At the present time, 80% of the trout planted in Alberta come from the Calgary Fish Hatchery while the remainder is distributed from the rearing ponds at Raven and Calgary. This year more than 1,500,000 trout will be planted in Alberta.

Wife: "That couple across the street are certainly in love," she told her husband. "Why, every morning I see Mr. Johns kissing Mrs. Johns good-bye. Why don't you do that?" Husband: "Why don't I? I haven't even been introduced to her."

FIRST THINGS FIRST
"Sir, I have a question of great importance to ask you. Have I your consent to marry your daughter?" "Do you drink, young man?" "Thanks, Pop — but let's settle this other thing first."

FARM IMPROVEMENT LOANS

TRAVELLERS CHEQUES

Protect you against theft or loss of cash. They are readily negotiable anywhere.

PERSONAL LOANS

To finance your personal needs; repayment in regular instalments from your earnings.

Men, materials... and money

When a business lands an order or a contract, it is likely to go to a chartered bank to arrange some of the financing. It may need bank credit to meet payrolls, to buy materials or to cover other costs that arise before it is paid.

That's why businesses both large and small can take on many jobs they would be unable to handle if they had to depend entirely on their own financial resources . . . And why, every day and in every part of Canada, the chartered banks are lending money to producers, manufacturers, processors and other commercial customers.

Commercial loans are only one of many banking services available at a branch of a chartered bank. You will find it is a convenient banking service-centre where you can attend to all your banking needs.

GRASSING ROADSIDES: Recently I have had numerous enquiries about seeding grass on newly worked ditch slopes, and whether this is the right time to do it. We don't want the seedlings to germinate anywhere this fall as the time is too short for them to establish a root system that will hold over the winter. However, grass may be seeded anytime in October as it will not germinate then before winter but will be there ready to take advantage of early spring moisture. In my opinion October is the ideal month to seed grass down those roadsides with grass. We have the grass seed and will be glad to supply it free to those who have prepared the roadside ditches. The full skirt was topped with a pupium of lace. Her finger tip well cascaded from a mother-of-pearl coronet, and she carried a bouquet of orchids and white stephanotis. Her only jewelry was a watch, gift of the groom.

VOSZLER - NEUFELD

The Evangelical Church, Didsbury, was the scene of a pretty wedding on August 24th at 4 p.m. when Esther Susan, second daughter of Mrs. Margaret Neufeld of Didsbury, and Milton John, son of Mrs. Lydia Voszler of Brooks, were united in marriage. The vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with pink and white gladioli and sweet peas. Rev. A. E. Stuckel performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother Mr. Arthur Neufeld, wore a floor length gown of net and lace over white satin. The full skirt was topped with a pupium of lace. Her finger tip well cascaded from a mother-of-pearl coronet, and she carried a bouquet of orchids and white stephanotis. Her only jewelry was a watch, gift of the groom.

A quartette of attendants preceded the bride down the aisle. Mrs. Bob Francis of Calgary, sister of the bride was matron of honor. Misses Wanda Neufeld, Elsie Goerzen and Velma Janzen were bridesmaids. Their identical gowns were of ball-length pink net with lace insets over taffeta. The strapless bodice was topped with a matching face bolero. Their head dresses were of white net, studded with rhinestones, and they carried nosegays of white carnations.

Mr. Robert Francis of Calgary and Mr. Wayne Miller acted as best men. Ushering the guests were Mr. Verne Sawatzky and Mr. Edgar Neufeld. Mr. Ken Sherrick supplied the wedding music and Mrs. Zelle Fees was the soloist.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Neufeld chose a navy frock with pink accessories and her corsage was of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for 100 guests in the church parlors. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, beautifully decorated by Mrs. Eldon Deadrick of Olds. During the reception Miss Wanda Neufeld and Miss Pat Bennett sang a duet.

For travelling the bride donned a charcoal suit with wheat colored accessories and at her shoulder was pinned an orchid corsage. After a honeymoon to Vancouver

GOING BACK TO SCHOOL
"I hate school." "I do not want an education," said one teenager to another very recently in my hearing. I wonder why so many young folk for whom so much has been done, and not without large expenditures, on the part of the parents, express their feelings thus.

Some years ago four young ladies, worked on the blackboard during a class in Form V Arithmetic in an Ontario schoolroom.

The teacher, a mild spoken man, saw they were all on the wrong track, and were not getting near the answer. To help them he said, girls, in what will the answer be? They did not seem to understand so he said, well, what are you looking for? With one voice they answered "Men."

What are we looking for? What have we a right to expect from our schools today?

Thomas Jefferson tells us in the story of his own life, about a neighbor of his who was "asin" education, because, said he, if everyone can read and write who will clean the stables?

The pathway to successful living in 1955 is the way of service. We need training such as will fit us to earn a living; cleaning stables if need be; create a desire for more training, enslave lofty ideas, and enable us to spend of leisure time in a wholesome and happy way.

Getting an education then becomes much more than sitting in a school room, much more than memorizing lessons from books but becomes rather the mastering of better planning, clean and useful living, and the knack of always being busy and of always keeping sweet.

The late James J. Hill of railroad fame was a poor boy who at the age of five years walked two and one-half miles to school through the bush, daily. At the age of fourteen years his father died and James had to go to work. He was always fond of reading, and always seeking for ways to improve his knowledge. Having found a book on engineering, he took it to work with him and read it at the noon hour.

A fellow workman seeing him reading, asked him if he intended to be an engineer. He answered that he did not know what he might be, but a knowledge of engineering could easily be useful some day.

We all know how useful it was to Jim Hill, and we also know he made that knowledge serve many others.

Years ago the Psalmist wrote "Thine meek will He teach in His way." Meaning no person who is at all willing to receive training for living need be without it. The Holy Spirit will interpret and the Holy word will inspire and instruct all who are willing to receive knowledge, and thus all may enjoy living and on a high plane.

and other points west, the happy couple will reside in Morrillville where the groom is employed with Regent Drilling.

Out-of-town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Leverage Voszler of Maple Creek, Sask., Mr. and Mrs. Dave Voszler of Vulcan, Mr. Gilbert Voszler of Brooks, and Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Grams of Three Hills.

No—not a Communist, but the fire-engine red that goes with clanging bells, screaming sirens and racing fire trucks.

The Kent Fire Brigade, in England, has gone against tradition and now uses vehicles of aluminum—for three good reasons: No more painting. Less gas... we mean petrol. And better roadability and handling because of the lighter-weight aluminum bodies. We'd guess there's a further premium that the Kent folk enjoy: pride in their fire brigade when it flashes by in its gleaming new dress. Few materials can match aluminum for its fresh and lasting good looks.

The Rights Of The Public . . .

The little row going on about Premier Manning cutting The Calgary Herald and The Edmonton Journal off his list of newspapers represented at his press conferences possibly may not seem important to the private individual who doubtless shrugs it all off as a private row between the Premier and his keenest critics.

We note The Albertaian in defending the Premier in the matter says that he has a right to exclude representatives of a paper which attacks him as strongly as The Herald does.

We doubt if a Premier has a right to deny a paper access to information. It is the right of the citizen to have this information and the right of the paper to provide it to its readers. As Mr. E. Manning, an individual, he has a right to exclude a paper but when it comes to public business as Premier Manning he has no right to deny a paper public information. Unhappily for Alberta has for so long renounced in the direction of Premier Manning that it cannot find a way to criticize his action except to say that it was "ill-advised" and gives no reason to back up this statement.

The saddest part of The Albertaian's special pleading for the Premier is that its comments were made "not out of any concern for the rights of journalism or for the freedom of the press." That is very sad coming from a newspaper.

We note also that The Albertaian has been slapping the leader of the opposition around about his statements on the matter. Oddly enough, that paper is on bad terms with him over the matter of press releases. Some years ago there was a schism about The Albertaian getting news Mr. Prowse, the details of which are not specially interesting but ever since The Albertaian has had its knife in him, so Mr. Prowse ignores The Albertaian.

Now Mr. Prowse, other than being an MLA and leader of the opposition has no official capacity and is in no position to be holding press conferences on government affairs when directly affects the public as a criticism of him in the matter, as it is in the Premier's case is fairly valid. On the other hand Mr. Prowse is ill-advised because it's no inconvenience to a paper to be ignored. When a paper wants the news, it will get it. True The Albertaian has been critical of him but when a man is in the public eye he must expect this.

Although Premier Manning has no business in his official capacity in denying a paper to the news, he too is only inconveniencing The Herald. In the first place most official action of the government is speculation for days or weeks beforehand and when the announcement comes publicly it is often nothing but an anti-climax.

In the second place The Herald has undoubtedly not be troubled by more than a few minutes delay in getting the news from the news services. And in the third the Premier has offered, on a platter, The Herald another chance to thunder in an editorial. If Mr. Manning is revenged for The Herald's attack on Premier Manning, we would say it was a pretty piffing revenge.

— Nanton, News.

Notes From D.A.

The Provincial Government operates the three schools of Agriculture in Alberta, one of these is located at Olds. The main objective of the Agricultural and Home Economics courses given is education and training to the boys and girls so that they are better fitted for a successful career as farmers of today and tomorrow.

The boys courses consist of agricultural subjects such as field husbandry, animal husbandry, farm management etc. These subjects are dealt with both in the study and practical phases. In addition academic courses are given to those who require them.

In the case of the girls the Home Economics course includes all phases of home-making, sewing, cooking, mending as well as academic subjects. It is designed to give the practical experience and training a girl needs so she can better become a successful home-maker.

The courses are given during the winter season so that the rural boys and girls may be at home during the busy summer farm months. The cost of the course is not high, the knowledge and training gained is very valuable. The extra curricular activities, dormitory life and camp-

WE'RE BOUND TO GROW

With 400,000 more people in Canada today than a year ago, we may think this country is growing fast. But 20 years from now it will be growing a lot faster, declares The Financial Post. Why? Because by then the record 10-year crop postwar babies will be in the baby business themselves.

Take Peterborough as an example. In the nine years prior to 1946 there were 3,710 children born in that Ontario city. In the nine years following almost 9,000 were born. More significant, however, is the fact that in Peterborough today there are over 1,000 children aged five, but only 345 aged 15. This means that 20 years from now almost twice as many people will be getting married, and establishing homes and families as is the case today.

Altogether with the classroom studies all goes to give an education and training which grows boys and girls to become successful farmers and home makers later in their own community.

Any young person who is planning to carry on in the agricultural field should give this school serious consideration. Further information can be obtained from the Principal of the Olds School of Agriculture of this office.

Farm Safety Fall Project

UNLESS the greatest care is taken and all safety precautions heeded within the next few weeks at least five people will be killed in Alberta farm accidents. A similar number died during the seeding season last spring. The toll for spring and fall for the past few years has remained fairly constant.

Some of the victims will be trampled to death under tractors, while others will die in power machinery. The death and the accidents on the farm are all of the most painful variety. They are the results of a moment of carelessness or fatigue.

Although instructions on safety can reduce the number of farm accidents a program of preparedness should be outlined for each family and crew.

An efficient plan of action for accidents on the farm could mean that the injured are moved to the hospital quickly and efficiently, reducing the death toll and the length of hospitalization.

Casual glances from the farm home onto fields being worked often mean that an accident is discovered be-

DUCKS TO GET NEW NECK BANDS

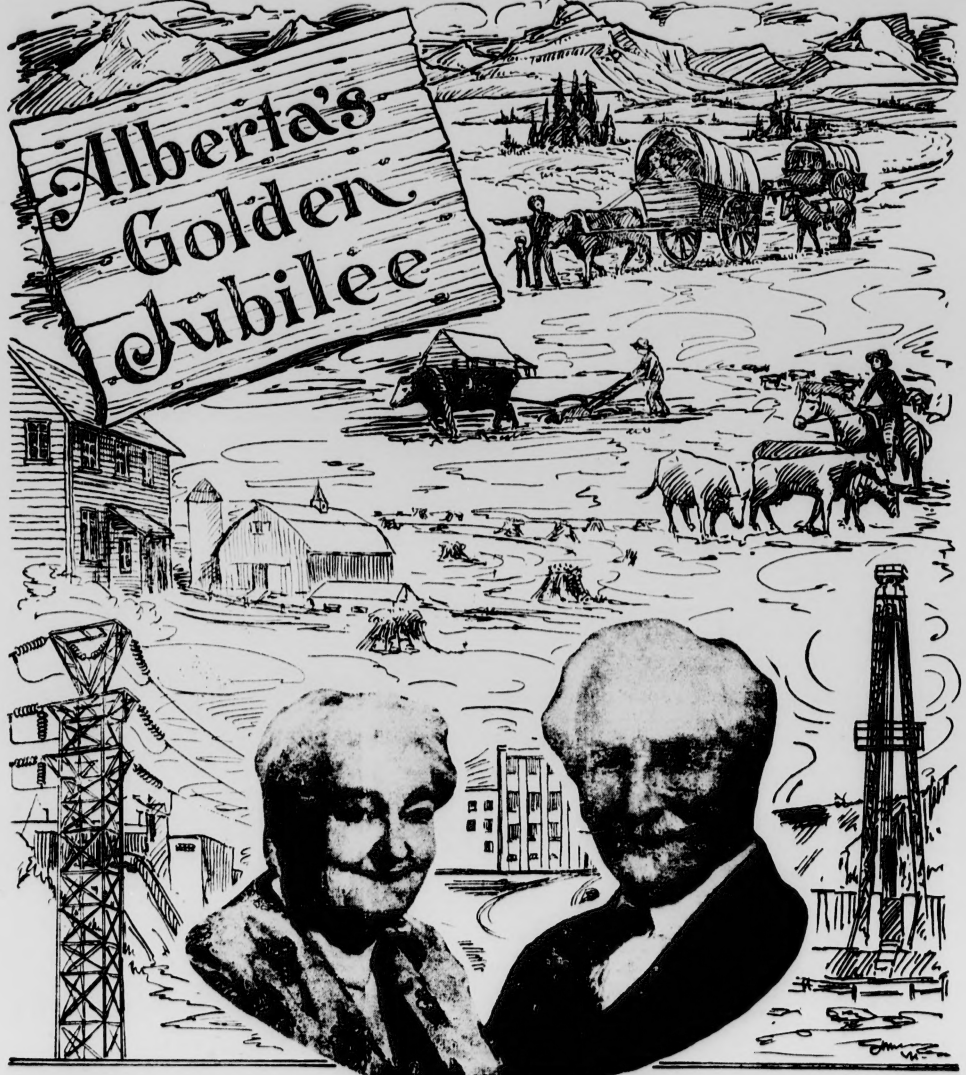

Some western ducks will be wearing bright neck bands this fall. The new banding technique has been introduced by the Canadian Wildlife Service to identify ducks in flight.

The neck bands are of flexible colored plastic, some bearing symbols in contrasting colors. The colors and symbols enable biologists to relate groups of ducks to particular areas of the West and plot their day-by-day movements from the time they learn to fly until they leave for the south. Such information may help solve the problem of crop damage by ducks.

Hunters and farmers spotting the banded ducks can co-operate in the research by writing the Chief of the Wildlife Service at Ottawa with the date and location of the sighting as well as a good description of the colors on the neck band. No stamp is required on the letter and the Wildlife Service will reply with information on where and when the ducks were banded.

WEDDINGS

KLINCK - McDONALD

A quiet and lovely wedding was solemnized on Friday afternoon, September 3, at the home of the groom's parents when Gladys Margaret, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. P. McDonald, and Delbert Earl, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Earl Klinck, were united in marriage. Dr. J. M. Fawcett, a former minister of the Didsbury Charge, performed the ceremony in an alcove beautifully decorated with fall flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the room to the strains of the wedding march played by a cousin of the groom, Mrs. Gordon Ford. She looked most charming in a gown of white corded tulle, with net overskirt and dainty lace bolero. Her veil, which had been worn by an aunt, was of rayon net, finger-tip length, and was held in place by a rhinestone studded tiara. She carried a sheaf of pastel tinted gladioli.

The attendants were her two sisters. Dorothy acted as bridesmaid and was gowned in maize corded tulle, with net overskirt, and with a flower bandeau in her hair. She carried a sheaf of pastel tinted gladioli.

George Klinck was his brother's best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at which Dr. Fawcett proposed the toast to the bride and the groom suitably replied.

For going away the bride changed into a turquoise blue jersey dress, with which she wore white accessories, and a corsage of pastel gladioli and sweet peas.

On the return from a trip to the coast they will reside on the groom's farm at Westcott.

The Horse !

Few people realize that man's faithful servant, the horse, according to many archeologists had his origin about 50 million years ago in the region of Alberta and Saskatchewan as a tiny dog-like creature. In the evolution of time he developed through many stages, clearly depicted in fossil remains, until 3 million years ago he was a genuine horse of pony size. Suddenly he became extinct in America, from causes undetermined by scientists, but sufficient of his number had wandered into Asia to perpetuate the species.

For the next 5 million years he was considered an Asian and European animal. In recent times he was domesticated and used by man. Spanish explorers took a number to Mexico around 1500. Some escaped and ran wild while the others were used by Indians and were gradually traded northward. Finally the Blackfoot of southern Alberta acquired them and after nearly 5 million years a wanderer had returned home.

When settlers poured into the West, the horse became their main source of power and horse ranching was an extensive and profitable business. Before the inception of Alberta as a province and for 15 to 20 years afterwards horsepower was predominant and fine horses were the pride of most Alberta farmers. In the last 25 years the modern tractor has displaced them rapidly and the horse population is now at its lowest ebb in many years. There are 176,000 of them in the province compared to 197,000 in 1954 and around 700,000 in 1921.

The unusually hot dry weather of the passed week has enabled farmers to make rapid progress in their harvesting operations.

News for this column is scarce, we're so busy working in the field we hardly see our next door neighbors.

THAT FARM MARKETING BOARD LEGISLATION . . .

The fact that the Alberta Legislature hurried through enabling legislation so that certain farm groups could set up co-operative and compulsory marketing boards, does not necessarily mean that the legislation will be implemented.

In theory, we are ready to admit that the farmer has the right to control the marketing of his own products, but we are not yet convinced that the farmer in Western Canada has arrived at the point where he can do it better for himself than the competing agencies that are already doing the job.

We are basing some of our conclusions upon the results of similar legislation in practice in B.C., most notably the fruit marketing co-operative.

As far as the consumer on the prairie is concerned the compulsory fruit marketing set-up in B.C. has not meant more fruit, better fruit, or fruit for less money. The results have been quite to the contrary. The distributors on the prairies have resolved themselves into the ordinary retail marketing channels and their toll is very high.

The grower, in the early years, certainly benefited under the new system; but in later years the entire system has developed into an unhealthy monopoly.

But setting back to Alberta . . . conditions are varied within the boundaries of this vast province, and what would serve in one area, could very definitely be a menace to a similar area in a different latitude. We are willing to wait and see.

If any group does want to proceed under the enabling legislation, we will rest assured that the consumer will be considered at the same time that the producer is being protected.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The vital importance of understanding God as the source of all true substance will be brought out by Christian Science services his Sunday. Reading in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Substance" will include the following passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "335: 12: 'spirit is the only substance, the invisible and indivisible infinite God. Things spiritual and eternal are substantial. Things material and temporal are insubstantial.' The indestructible nature of spiritual substance is also in selections to be read from the Bible, including the following: 'I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken from it' (Eccl. 3: 14 to 2nd); 'The Golden Text is from John (6: 27): 'Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for Him hath God the Father sealed.'"

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Beveridge and family of Holden were holiday visitors with the latter's father, Mr. A. G. Studer.

Miss Margaret Hanson, a well-known personage on local scenes for many years, has returned to town and is being welcomed by her many friends. Marg tried the west coast atmosphere and claims we've got it better here.
